

SCHOOLS WITHOUT GEOGRAPHY

Doing geography at school means educating citizens of Italy and the world to be aware, independent, critical and responsible, to know how to live their lives within their environment, and how to change it in a creative and sustainable way, with an eye to the future.

In the new curricula envisaged for high schools and technical and professional schools, geography as a subject is destined to be heavily penalised or to disappear entirely.

We the undersigned believe that to deprive ourselves of the knowledge systems supplied by geography, in a society that is increasingly globalised and complex, means depriving students of knowledge's that are absolutely essential if they are to face the challenges of the world.